Red roses are the flowers of love and, as such, they are a perfect decorating element for enhancing any Valentine's Day celebration. For a memorable holiday, we present a few ideas for incorporating these romantic blooms into your decorating theme.

A Bed of Roses

Surprise your sweetheart with a message of love created out of fresh or silk rose petals.

You Are the One

As a simple, beautiful, romantic alternative to a dozen roses, place a piece of florist's green foam, a flower frog, or marble stones at the bottom of a beautiful glass bowl. Insert a single red rose to represent the special person in your life, then top it off with sprinkled rose petals.

A Present for You

Instead of wrapping your Valentine present or placing it in a gift bag, why not try something very romantic? Simply place your special gift atop a bed of silk petals.

Bubbles and Roses

Prepare a romantic bath for your Valentine, complete with candles, lots of bubbles, and, of course, the petals of love!

Petal-Tinis

Place several martini glasses filled with rose petals throughout your home so you can enjoy the sweet fragrance during your holiday of love.

Dressing it Red!

Rose petals, sweet chocolate, white linen and more; these are the things we love and adore!

Je t'adore!

Classic, simple and elegant, this place setting declares, "I love you!" A special rose is gently positioned to fall across the sparkling white plates, where velvety petals add vibrant splashes of color. The captivating look is completed by the beautiful rolled white napkin that's held together with a sterling ring featuring a red heart.

Engagement Red

Draped in black, the table covering brings out the vibrant reds in this place setting. Large folded napkins become placemats as crimson hearts rest on a shiny ebony plate. A scarlet silk ribbon gathers together the napkin and fork, framed by a tea light that is lit for this significant occasion.

Tied with pretty ribbons, the white heart-shaped box draws attention, but it is the ruby-hued velvet box that holds the momentous surprise.

A Valentine Anniversary

Commemorating the special occasion, a card, embellished with a loving message and the anniversary date, is paired with a white rose corsage. The napkin is cinched by a pewter ring as a few red rose petals dress up the plate. A crystal dish holds a romantic, silk-laced heart.
