As I stood on the beach, camera in hand, the night sky unveiled its mesmerizing beauty. I set up my tripod, anchoring it firmly in the soft sand, allowing me to capture the celestial wonders that lay before me. A gentle breeze carried the salty scent of the ocean, infusing the air with a touch of mystery and adventure. With each click of the shutter, I immortalized a tiny fragment of the universe, capturing a fleeting moment that would never be repeated.

The starry evening on the beach served as a humbling reminder of the boundless grandeur of existence, evoking a deep sense of wonder and gratitude within me.

Stroll along on the Service Park boardwalks and enjoy this path in paradise.

The evening ended on such a great note—I had captured some wonderful images, took them home, and with very little editing, they were fabulous! (No Photoshop used). Camera Exif: Sony A7RII, Samyang 14mm, lens station applied, f/2.8, ISO/2000, 15 sec.
