Not many roofing companies can say that they've been around since 1951, when Harry Truman was the president and the Studebaker was the number-one passenger vehicle, selling for around $2,000. Over the last 70 years, there have been a lot of changes in the roofing industry, just as there have been in everyday life.

Environmental factors as well as natural disasters have facilitated changes in materials and building codes. Some roofing systems available today not only improve energy efficiency, but they also provide better protection against the elements.

"Kirkey Roofing has always been a company that looks to proven products and proven roof systems. Selecting a roofing contractor should be based on several factors because you deserve the best value for your investment," advises Craig Squier, president of Kirkey Roofing, Inc.

"Take into consideration the reputation and longevity of a business, its experience, workmanship, quality, warranties and guarantees, and customer satisfaction." Craig adds, "We don't take shortcuts. We care about our clients and do things for the right reasons so that our clients are protected."

Kirkey Roofing has the 70-year history of weathering many storms; natural, economic, and otherwise. "You don't have to worry about us overreacting or panicking just because a new challenge comes our way," says Patty Squier, co-owner of Kirkey Roofing, Inc. "We have been around long enough to understand that there will always be challenges in the construction industry, whether these are related to material, job, or labor shortages, or other factors. Experience has taught us to always focus on our homeowners' needs and our core values. You can count on Kirkey Roofing to be stable and dependable."

Not only will customers feel secure knowing that their roof was properly installed, they can also rest assured that the workers on their project were trained and certified by Kirkey's manufacturers. After each day on the job, they remove all construction debris. Craig explains, "Job sites are cleaned daily because we, like our clients, wouldn't want to come home to a messy yard. Also, each of our employees is covered by workers' compensation insurance because we take the safety and security of our employees, as well as our customers, very seriously."

Throughout its 70 years in the community, Kirkey Roofing has earned the benefits of name recognition and a well-established reputation for excellence. Licensed and insured, the company's quality workmanship and customer service are evidenced by several awards and honors including an Excellence in Business Award for the Englewood-Cape Haze Area Chamber of Commerce, a five-star rating from the National Home Services Review, and A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau, and multiple Super Service awards from Angi™ (formerly Angie's List).

Kirkey Roofing also offers roof repairs as well as annual inspections and preventative maintenance to catch problems early, thereby extending roof life. "Poor maintenance can cut the life of your roof in half," cites Craig. "Leaks can contribute to other problems because the resulting moisture can attract pests like termites and carpenter ants, and can facilitate mold growth."

Built on a strong foundation of over seven decades of customer service and satisfaction, Craig is looking forward to a positive future and assures customers that Kirkey Roofing is a solid company. He says, "Your roof is only as good as the contractor who installs it and we will be here 70 years down the road."
